ECONOMY

GDP growth in Nova Scotia is expected to hold firm due to robust activity in the wholesale trade sector and gains in the residential/non-residential sector. The robust population growth in past quarters has led to a low vacancy rate, leading to higher rents in the residential sector, with a CPI (Consumer Price Index) in August of 9% year-over-year. Purpose-built house construction has increased to respond to the growing demand and increased population. Overall, the economy in Nova Scotia is on track for steady growth with activity from government spending and responding to the demands of a steady population.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

Vacancy in the Halifax industrial market reached 5.7% in the third quarter of 2024, a decrease of 40 basis points (bps) from the previous quarter. While almost all submarkets remained either stable or posted a slight decrease in vacancy compared to last quarter, the overall decline was driven by multiple movements in the Bedford submarket.

Overall absorption in the Halifax industrial market increased significantly compared to last quarter, from negative 136k square feet (sf) to 30k sf. The driving force behind the change was tightening in the Burnside submarket with positive absorption of 26k sf. Significant movement in Burnside Industrial Park occurred during the third quarter. Gesco, a distribution company, moved into 130 John Savage, taking 20,595 off the market. Groupe Touchette Tire Company moved out of 29 Ramona Court, vacating 21,025 sf.

PRICING

The Halifax industrial market average net rent was unchanged from last quarter, remaining at $9.58 per square foot (psf). The overall gross rent increased by $0.08 psf from the previous quarter, with Burnside being the only submarket that experienced an increase.
